The Carmel Pine Cone

and Carmel Valley Outlook

OUR 75TH YEAR, NO. 1

January 5, 1989

Perspectives on 1989

AS WAS evident in "The Year in Review — 1988" in the last issue of the Carmel Pine Cone, the two biggest issues of the year were water (or the lack of it), and the Hatton Canyon Freeway.

There doesn't appear to be a respite from those two issues in 1989 — the recent rains notwithstanding. With rationing now in place, the water district is now concentrating its efforts on the New San Clemente Dam. Meanwhile Caltrans is forging ahead with plans for its new freeway, but it won't be a smooth ride — there's considerable opposition to its current plans.

But new issues are bound to crop up and new solutions to old issues revealed. So, we asked a variety of civic, business, political and community leaders for their thoughts on what 1989 has in store for us, what their goals are and what they hope to accomplish in the new year.

By BRIAN STEEN
Executive Director
Big Sur Land Trust

SINCE ITS inception a decade ago, the Big Sur Land Trust (BSLT) has been successful in encouraging protective long-term land stewardship. Serving as a bridge between the private and public sectors, the trust has completed a total of 44 land transactions resulting in the preservation of more than 6,500 acres on the Big Sur Coast.

The trust is pleased to achieve its goal set 10 years ago of preserving 10 percent of the private sector acreage in Big Sur. Other accomplishments include preserving more than 500 acres in Carmel Valley and purchasing the last open space on Monterey's Cannery Row.

The prevailing philosophy responsible for the success of the Big Sur Land Trust is to operate as a serious business rather than as an emotional cause. BSLT does not take confrontational positions and specifically refrains from comment regarding a landowner's intended use of his or her property. Remaining neutral, but informed, has brought conservation opportunities to the trust that ordinarily would not have been available. This positive business perspective has made the trust the logical entity for landowners and local officials to turn to for responsible land use.

By now, most people know that Proposition 70, the California Wildlife, Coastal and Parkland Conservation Bond Act was overwhelmingly passed by California voters on June 7 of this year. Of the $776 million provided statewide, $25 million will be appropriated to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors for the purchase of development rights on scenic viewshed properties in Big Sur, i.e. those that can be seen by travelers on Highway 1.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors is working with The Big Sur Land Trust and other qualified non-profit conservation organizations to conduct the negotiations and purchases of these viewshed properties for open space preservation.

To facilitate this process, BSLT recently completed a comprehensive study entitled Protecting Scenic Lands of the Big Sur Coast which, for the first time, identifies the viewshed properties of Big Sur. This project was funded by a generous grant from the David and Lucile Packard Foundation. This report provides vital information for preserving Big Sur's scenic resources by rating

THE BIG Sur coast, once a battleground between residents and federal officials, will see increased protection in 1989 with the passage viewshed properties according to criteria including slope, distance, and scenic quality.

Without a doubt, the careful use of Proposition 70 funds will do more to protect Big Sur's scenic resources than any other effort in recent history. Getting to this point has involved years of work and perseverance by Big Sur residents and others who have fought the battles of conservation.

In 1989, The Big Sur Land Trust looks forward to the challenge Proposition 70 has provided and also to working with landowners in Carmel Valley and on the Monterey Peninsula who also share the ethics of responsible land conservation. Projects in these latter areas include assisting the City of Monterey in completing its Window On The Bay project and in Carmel Valley, to purchase a 1,100-acre redwood forested property otherwise due to be logged in 1989.

The Big Sur Land Trust is indebted to its members, landowners and the public who have supported the trust's conservation projects over the last 10 years. We thank you and look forward to even greater accomplishments in the decade to come.

By FRANCIS P. LLOYD
President
Carmel Residents Association

1988 SAW a change in the elected administration of Carmel. Under the previous administration, the speed with which change was pursued and permits were processed when it began spurred the formation of the Carmel Residents Association, with the primary purpose of achieving balance in the actions of the city.

CRA took as its watchwords the sentiments of the 1929 preamble to Carmel's

zoning ordinance, included in the city's general plan, which holds that Carmel is to be "primarily, essentially and predominantly a residential city wherein business and commerce" are "subordinated to its residential character." This philosophy served Carmel well in the past, by guiding the creation and preservation of this town.

Since the election last April, more balance and deeper consideration of the issues appear to have developed at the city council level. Nevertheless, the sentiments which swept the previous administration into office and the strong reaction to its effects have not yet been resolved entirely. Such was evident concerning the eternal parking issue, primarily with respect to the temporary paving of the north lot at Sunset and the commercial zone parking standards, with various procedural devices being employed by some to delay action on these parking matters, despite the obvious benefits to the city of their resolution.

Some outstanding positive developments, benefiting city residents, have emerged in 1988 from efforts of the past two and the present city administrations:

1. The completion of the Carmel Beach Walkway and restoration project.
2. The preservation of Mission Trail Park intact.
3. The preservation of the Flanders Mansion.
4. The acquisition of the "Torres Street" (Handley) property.
5. Progress on revised commercial zone parking standards.

CRA congratulates the city administration on these results.

CRA especially congratulates Carmel Heritage on its organization, goals, and accomplishments in 1988, serving to keep the traditions of Carmel alive physically as well as in the minds and eyes of the public. CRA also thanks all of the many other volunteers, serving on city commissions, committees or otherwise, who have acted for the best of the city this past year, particularly with respect to the five specific matters mentioned above.

We wish also to acknowledge the dedicated, knowledgeable and courteous work of City Administrator Doug Schmidt, Planning Director Diane White, and their helpful staffs. Carmel has been well served by them.

We look forward in 1989 to further dissipation of the residual antagonism and suspicion among citizen factions. Nevertheless, spirited debate must not and should not cease in our society, least of all in Carmel. In 1989 CRA will continue to promote positive city decisions, particularly regarding the parking questions, the use of the "Torres Street" (Handley) property, the revision of the R-1 zoning, the administration of the transient rental ordinance and the issues related to water.

Especially, in 1989, CRA looks forward to continued cooperation with the city in pursuing a satisfactory solution to the proposed Caltrans Hatton Canyon project, which, by the urban freeway concept presently proposed by Caltrans, would create monumental and irreplaceable damage to our landscape, with limited local benefits. The city is to be congratulated on its stand, eloquently stated at the recent Coastal Commission hearing. Obviously, only continued intense, effective and focused pressure will bring about a result which, as Mayor Jean Grace phrased it, should "lie gently upon the land." We deserve better on this issue than Caltrans proposes. We will not get a better result unless we fight for it, just as others in the past fought to control overdevelopment of Carmel. It would be instructive for all interested persons to walk into Hatton Canyon and view the magnificent, pristine, and irreplaceable aspects of that place, to reflect while there and consider whether a less-destructive alternative should not be demanded. This may be the greatest issue for us to confront in 1989!

In the beginning 1989, we might all pause and consider the words of the zoning preamble where residential character is declared paramount, "having in mind the history and the development" of Carmel, "its growth and the causes thereof; and also its geographical and topographical aspects." We must not, in the many controversies that do and will confront us here, lose sight of the spirit of the preamble's statement. If we keep it uppermost in our minds and insist on adherence to it, we can assure that Carmel will, in 1989 and thereafter, retain its special character and that the preamble's important ideals will prevail over expedient solutions, pursued for short-run profit. In this spirit, CRA wishes Carmel and its residents a rewarding New Year!

WATER RATIONING is in the headlines and on everyone's mind as we start 1989. Despite raindances, prayers, and conservation, the Monterey Peninsula has less water storage today than we did at this time in 1977.

If we experience rainfall similar to that recorded in 1977, we will need at least a 40 percent reduction in demand starting in May 1989, to reserve sufficient supply to satisfy peak demands this summer and to carry us

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Wasted revenues

Dear Editor:

The Monterey Peninsula's elected representatives — Panetta, Farr, Mello, Seastrand, and Strasser Kauffman — obviously don't have the perspective on the Hatton Canyon Freeway which makes other long-time residents of this area rebel at the waste of public funds and environmental devastation which the freeway will cause.

Who cares about the thousands of dollars that Congressman Panetta returns from his salary to the federal treasury every year when his support for this unwanted and unneeded freeway would waste some $30 million in public revenues? The same applies to our other representatives who can't afford to equal even Congressman Panetta's fractional restitution. At this price, it's never too late to remind them what their services are costing us.

Here's an example. One afternoon a couple of summers ago, I passed a line of northbound traffic more than a mile long backed up behind the Rio Road intersection on my way down to Big Sur. It was going nowhere. I made a point of returning to the peninsula late that evening to avoid this traffic jam. When I got home, I turned on a television and saw a commercial sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce encouraging tourists to take scenic Highway 1 from San Simeon to the Monterey Peninsula. One guess as to who the big pushers are behind the Hatton Canyon Freeway. What's devastation to conservationists is money in the pockets of the local tourist industry. I wonder if they're still running that TV commercial?

More recently, I found that traffic cops don't help matters by overriding the Rio Road traffic light because northbound traffic backs up behind the other two lights further up the hill. The obvious solution would be to increase the length of all three green lights synchronized to favor northbound-southbound traffic. But that's too easy and inexpensive a solution for our Democratic representatives.

When that's been tried on congested holidays in the past, the long lines of northbound traffic have moved smoothly and quickly up Carmel Hill, but then local residents complain about the longer wait to cross Highway 1. In walking along Carmel River State Beach the other day, I noticed that the long lines of northbound holiday traffic were once again stalled behind the Rio Road intersection. It looks as though the impatient suburbanites among us have succeeded in their complaints about longer green lights for northbound traffic. My experience suggests that they would have done better to direct their complaints to the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce.

Modern-day horrors

Dear Editor:

Despite the ghastly horror created by the recent Armenian earthquake, the tragedy seemed to draw the actions of the world a bit closer together in the flood of aid and compassion for our unfortunate neighbors.

There was much evidence of shoddy construction in these collapsed buildings, and some of the builders are accused of theft and corruption in cutting costs, just like some of our own defense contractors, who also seem to get away with it, even though they may create life-threatening situations for our military personnel.

We must look inward to our own faults. We murder thousands of little children each year. Figures range from 2,000 to 10,000 murders a year. We consume 70 to 80 percent of the cocaine manufactured worldwide. Some drug barons will then invest their profits in American property.

Deadly toxic wastes are polluting our land, sea and air and waste dumps are becoming closer to residential areas and poisoning the drinking water.

Some of our own law officers and custom officials are being bribed with drug money and the situation seems to be getting worse.

Seems to me that something has to be done—and quickly.

A new approach

Dear Editor:

I have been thinking for several months of a way to curb terrorism, against American military, diplomats and civilian citizens. My conclusion was "Put a bounty on their heads." This is the way the Western part of the United States administered justice in the early years of our history.

I recommend that a $1 million, or a varying amount similar to the crime, "bounty" be offered for information leading to the apprehending and conviction of any terrorist that causes the death of any American citizen.

Some people may think this is a high price to pay. How much is your or a friend's life worth? Each year our government is defrauded of much more than this, for example: In the January 1989 issue of Reader's Digest, page 85, entitled "Scandal in Our Trade Schools," tells about scam school operators that cost the U.S. government billions of dollars.

I do not think my recommendations are too far out of line, but some positive action must be taken. Many Americans would contribute to a fund such as this for a bounty and may make contributions up to $2 million. We are tired of terrorism.

The Besmirched Area

Dear Editor:

The greatest New Year's present residents of the peninsula ever could receive, would be the announcement from Caltrans and their arrogant supporters that they will abandon all plans for the environment-shattering Hatton Canyon freeway.

If this monstrosity is imposed on the docile citizens, we will regret it. Remember, San Francisco removed a partially built, unsightly waterfront highway after public outcry. This proposed "freeway" here will be more massive, ergo, permanent!

If the "freeway" is built, on its completion or dedication, I shall not be in the crowd. I will be putting flowers of apology and lament on Gunnar Norberg's grave. The Heritage City will henceforth be The Besmirched Area.

Patience

Dear Editor:

I wonder which came first, America's world policeman complex, or the desire to keep Old World colonialism alive, or the perception that we could ensure better trade agreements by either controlling or "buying-off" foreign leaders. U.S. policy in Central America did wonders for United Fruit Co. and some others, with the help of a lot of Marines in the '20s and early '30s.

Communism became a major threat to the U.S., when it began to look good to people who were being oppressed in countries dominated by U.S. influence, and threat of a "Communist invasion" became an excellent tool for obtaining public support and money to "fight off Communism."

Fortunately, the Rambo movies came along to make Ramboism a favorite hobby of a lot of people in high places who could use a little help in preserving arms appropriations. It didn't matter that most of the Rambos had somehow managed to avoid serving in the armed forces, as long as they could fit the image.

So, Ramboism was off and running, and it got our warships into the Persian Gulf to promote Ramboism by safeguarding Japan's supply of oil, so that Japan might stay "on our side" in the event of World War III, and we used one of our best Ramboism weapons to shoot down an airliner full of people just four days before one of their national holidays.

Some relatives and countrymen of the 290 passengers we wiped out decided to let us know what it felt like to be on the other end of the Ramboism stick, so four days before one of our national holidays one of our airliners met a fate similar to theirs. If all goes well, we will carefully but speedily select a target of retaliation, and we will use some more Ramboism to show the world that we are not going to put up with anybody else's retaliation, no matter what.

Probably the main reason we haven't been able to get World War III started in the Middle East is that it is almost impossible to get an Arab into a suit that would make him look like a communist. We must be patient. Somebody will think of something.

Seeking relatives

Dear Editor:

I was born in Carmel, my parents moved away when I was very small. My parents were killed in an automobile accident when I was 4. I have lived in and out of foster homes until I was 14. I am now doing three years in prison, and I've never felt so alone. I believe that I may have relatives living in or around Carmel. I was hoping that you find the kindness in your heart to publish my letter in hopes that my relatives or someone who may know of them would read it, and write to me.

I would also like very much to correspond with anyone who would like to share a smile from time to time. So, if there is anyone who would like to write. Please do. I must ask. Could you please enclose a stamp for I'm locked in a cell almost 24 hours a day with no funds to buy any with.

Thank you for taking time to read my letter. I'm sorry that I have no funds to pay for printing fees.

through autumn. If we get enough rainfall to match the Carmel River flow experienced in 1986, the district will maintain 20 percent rationing until we get relief in late 1989 or early 1990. Hopefully, we will get 20 inches of rainfall or more in the watershed so that ground water reserves can be replenished and the district can stop rationing. Until that time, the district urges each and every water customer to "save your share."

Many readers may wonder why rationing is necessary when our community voted its overwhelming support for the construction of a new San Clemente Dam back in November 1987. In fact, if a new San Clemente Dam had been built in 1985, we would have had ample reserves to meet the water needs of the Monterey Peninsula today with no rationing. Unfortunately, state and federal permit processes have stalled the project. The bad news is that the earliest a new water supply project can come on line would be 1995. The good news is that the district is working at full speed to secure required permits so the project can proceed.

During 1989, the district's top priority will be completion of the environmental documents demanded by the U.S. Corps of Engineers and the State Water Resources Control Board. The district will be conducting the archeological, biological, geological, hydrological, noise, traffic, and zoological studies needed so we can publish an Environmental Impact Report/Statement acceptable to the regulatory agencies. Rep. Leon Panetta and Sen. Henry Mello have volunteered to help us expedite this process.

The Draft Environmental Impact Report/Statement should be released in November 1989 for public review. The district expects to conduct a series of public hearings to present the report and to receive comments. The district will then respond to these comments and revise the draft report. Following finalization of the report, the district can secure permits, design the project, obtain voter approval, and construct the project.

Although water rationing is painful and unpleasant, it reminds us of the community's need to solve the basic problem— inadequate storage. Clearly, we have sufficient supply, on average. Unfortunately, Mother Nature ignores averages.

BY DEE ADOLPH and
BARBARA SIMMONS
Carmel Business Association

1989 WILL be a year of challenge for the Carmel Business Association whose membership will be facing a series of issues and trends that will greatly impact the growth and profit of their businesses.

Carmel's businesses will continue in 1989 to see staggering rent increases and high costs of doing business. They will experience even stiffer competition for the tourist dollar from Monterey's hotels and shops, and the tourists themselves are changing to daytime visitors who are spending less and less.

The Carmel Business Association is a volunteer, non-profit organization whose purpose is to promote an economic, political, and social environment that will stimulate professional and profitable business activities for our membership.

With so many important trends facing our membership, the Carmel Business Association has over the past several years attempted to take a proactive rather than reactive stance to solve our problems. General membership meetings have been working networking sessions where our members have identified the issues impacting their businesses and discussed possible problems and solutions.

In 1988, the Carmel Business Association made an even greater effort to identify the needs of our own residents in order to improve our interaction and service to our own community.

Probably our greatest achievement in 1988 has been the dramatic increase of our volunteer involvement and their interest and commitment to improve our business community.

In 1989, the Carmel Business Association will continue to see an even greater volunteer involvement. Because we are concerned about the professional conduct of our businesses, a Code of Ethics will be created and implemented, and our bylaws will be updated. In 1989, we will see an even better relationship and interaction with our residential community and with Carmel City Hall.

It is important for us all to recognize the significant financial contribution that the Carmel business district makes toward the budget of the city. Through hostelry taxes, sales taxes, business license taxes, and others, Carmel businesses have contributed up to 70 percent of the city budget. Without the help of our local businesses, the residents' taxes to support approximately a $7 million dollar city budget would be prohibitive. Twenty-six percent of our 4,700 residents has an income of under $15,000 a year. Twenty-nine percent of the population is 65 years or older. Thirty-seven percent of our population draws Social Security, and 0.3 percent of our residents are on public assistance.

Therefore, the level of city services to our residential community is directly dependent upon the success of Carmel's businesses. In 1989, as in the past, as our Carmel businesses prosper, so does our city and our residential community.

BY LEON E. PANETTA
Congressman, 16th District

THIS MONTH, our nation's 41st president and 101st Congress take office. Nothing better symbolizes our great democracy than the inauguration of a president and swearing-in of a Congress. The people spoke in November, and, with no question or controversy, their choices take office.

The voters elected, by solid margins, both a Republican president and a Democratic Congress. A government divided by party can mean stalemate and political inaction. But it can also mean creativity and productive compromise. Under the Reagan administration, we had some of each. As we enter the new year, this nation's future depends on which direction is taken by the new president and Congress.

No issue better represents the dilemma — and the opportunity — as well as the federal budget deficit. Continuing 12-digit budget deficits have brought our national debt above $2.6 trillion. We will pay some $166 billion in interest payments on the debt this year alone. That is $166 billion that cannot be spent to train soldiers, to house the poor, to clean up polluted air in the nation's cities, to educate our children, to stop the flow of drugs into our country, or to train unemployed workers for new jobs.

The question we are facing is not whether to reduce deficits. Both common sense and the Gramm-Rudman budget law tell us we must cut the deficit for the 1990 fiscal year by about $35 billion. The question is, how shall we do it? Will we simply allow the Gramm-Rudman law to take its course, with automatic deep across-the-board cuts in defense and certain domestic programs? Or will the new president and Congress exercise the leadership for which they were elected and craft a fair, sensible deficit-reduction package?

I have been elected by my colleagues to serve as chairman of the House Budget Committee in the new Congress. I expect, therefore, to play a significant role in our efforts to reduce the deficit.

Any serious budget package must provide for fair, balanced, and effective deficit reductions. Given the reality of a budget in which some 85 percent goes for defense, entitlement programs, and interest on the debt, it is essential that a credible deficit reduction budget include both spending restraints and additional revenues dedicated to deficit reduction.

The latter may be controversial. No one is anxious to address the issue of additional taxes. But the worst tax of all is the debt burden we now lay on ourselves and our children. Ending that tax should be our first priority.

It remains to be seen whether Congress and the new administration will exhibit the leadership that is necessary to make these tough choices. The budget submitted by Mr. Bush will be the first sign—his first test of leadership. With it, he can send a signal that he means to work with Congress—or that he means to play politics.

If he is ready to work with Congress, my colleagues and I will be eager to reciprocate. If he walks away from the challenge, then deficit reduction will become a protracted, harmful struggle. The nation's future—the future of our democracy—depends, in part, on the new president's decision.

BY JIM JOSOFF

Friends of the Big Sur Coast

THERE ARE some opportunities and problems facing us in 1989 that it would otherwise be difficult to bring together in sort of a package. Almost all of what I want to cover has to do with growth...growth the interdependent peninsula communities and Big Sur have had and growth they face as we now find the 1990s on our doorstep. 1989 has to be the year in which we resolve some problems and take steps to avoid others.

The Hatton Canyon Freeway Project: As a member of the advisory commission to Caltrans for this project, I see 1989 as the year it all begins to come together with increasing understanding on the part of the communities that, rather than leading to increased growth, the new freeway addition is in fact a very belated attempt to play catch-up with growth that has already occurred.

It is my hope and belief that Caltrans will in 1989 come to grips with their need to more fully understand the uniqueness of the area they are dealing with...with their need to accept the fact that what is appropriate for other parts of the state is too futuristic for an area as (thank God) old-time-resort-laid-back-village as the Monterey Peninsula.

It is understandably difficult for engineers and designers who have prided themselves on the creation of ultramodern bridges and roadways to come to grips with a need to move the design clock backwards to find what is appropriate for this area. The design of the freeway approaches and exits still needs more work but 1989 should see acceptance of an exit for northbound traffic at Rio Road that does not involve a left-hand turn against southbound traffic; and a northbound entrance to the freeway at Rio Road, thus relieving congestion as cars pass under the new freeway, heading for Carmel.

The growth in tourism for the Monterey Peninsula: I suspect that most peninsula residents realize the value of tourism to our area, but I also suspect that most believe that the growth of the number of tourists who visit here at any one time has got to be looked at very closely.

Scrutiny viewed policies of the LCP, the owners can then be compensated at fair market value, and the land can remain forever free under county ownership, and can never be ceded to the federal government, thus avoiding a gradual takeover of the area by an increasing federal presence. "Fair market value!" Why it's almost as though we have the Constitution back in force!

The federalization of the coast: Except for a fairly silly piece of Wilson legislation that will make a part of the Big Sur River into a Wild and Scenic River, there appears to be very little likelihood of federal legislation this year or in the immediate future for the Big Sur area. Wilson's bill about that one part of the Big Sur River will make little difference in fact, since the part of the river involved is already within the wilderness area of the Los Padres National Forest, but it probably makes Wilson feel good about his all-important "image."

Charitable giving—and raffles: As someone who has been involved with the charitable giving field for many years, I have been increasingly concerned about the state Attorney General's belief that he should be implementing some of the state's "blue laws" against chance drawings, raffles, etc. It seems that it is perfectly all right for the state to be conducting lotteries of various kinds itself, but that it is not all right for non-profit agencies which rely heavily on this fairly easy source of support of their programs.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars flow into charities through the means of raffles each year...dollars that literally keep programs of great value afloat. Raffles and other games of chance are a way of giving that is used by many people who otherwise do not make charitable gifts. Their support is very important to the non-profit agencies. For others, the purchase of raffle and other chance tickets is a way to make an additional gift, one that is fun...and the fun is the stimulus that makes the giving easier.

It is time that the Attorney General, and those who would support his stand on this issue, realize that government cannot any longer afford to reduce the stimuli for charitable giving and expect the private non-profit agencies to continue providing their admittedly valuable services.

Over the years, government has substantially reduced the tax benefits of being generous. At the same time, government has found itself taking on an ever increasing public welfare/health care/educational support role. And, of course, when the government gets involved, it tends to be far less efficient than non-profit private agencies and institutions. The cost of providing the service increases as bureaucracy builds.

Private giving is one of the hallmarks of American society and it must be encouraged, rather than discouraged. It is heartening that the peninsula's own Jack Kenaston has decided to lead the fight in 1989 to reinstate the raffle/games of chance as a legitimate vehicle for charitable use. A long-time charitable activist, Jack is one person with whom the Attorney General may find it very difficult to wrestle. Hopefully, this citizen revolt will lead to a reinstatement of other stimuli for charitable giving, and perhaps government can begin to see itself as partners with private non-profit agencies and institutions, and with charitable donors, rather than as adversaries.

By TOM OLIVER
President
Pebble Beach Co.

1989 IS an important milestone for Pebble Beach Co. as we celebrate the 70th anniversary of the opening of The Lodge and Pebble Beach Golf Links.

It was in 1919 that S.F.B. Morse, the founder of Del Monte Properties Co. and our predecessor, realized his goal of establishing Pebble Beach as a world-recognized resort. Under his stewardship, Pebble Beach became synonymous with golf, and it is that charge that we at Pebble Beach Co. carry forward today.

There is a history to respect and a tradition to maintain as we follow the original goals of S.F.B. Morse, and in 1989 what better example could we achieve than to see The Links at Spanish Bay named the best new resort golf course by the prestigious Golf Digest magazine.

Awards, however, are not what we seek as we plan for the year ahead. Because our goals have not changed from those of 1919, we intend to honor the tradition that Pebble Beach is not only a resort unequalled, but also an acclaimed residential community.

The two — recreation and residential — are compatible if there is considerate planning. Inherited from the past, that is our goal, our trust; to be thoughtful in providing the best. To that end, we can expect to see continued improvements in our operations at The Lodge, The Inn at Spanish Bay and their related golf, recreational and special events activities. In effect, Pebble Beach Co. will strive to not only be secure in its history, but to never lose sight of tradition as we look ahead.

In asking the people of the Monterey Peninsula to join us in celebrating our 70th anniversary there is an appropriate reminder: Pebble Beach was established in honor of the natural beauty of the Monterey Peninsula, it is a reflection of our common respect and desire to use, share and enjoy our uncommon setting.

That is our challenge, our goal, not just for 1989, but for all the years ahead.

By SAM FARR
State Assemblyman
28th District

AS YOUR resident state legislator, my perspectives on the coming year are a mixed bag of state and local issues.

Hatton Canyon: The project is a federal and state-funded highway improvement project. The lead agency is Caltrans. They have received conditioned approval from the Coastal Commission and now will seek final approval of the federal Environmental Impact Statement (EIS). The design and right-of-way activities and environmental mitigation measures require about 18 months after final approval of the EIS.

Assuming the Federal Highway Administration approves of the final EIS in January, Caltrans expects to complete their design in June and advertise for construction bids in September 1990.

In the meantime our local Citizens Advisory Committee will work with the Caltrans regional office on design improvements, including improved access and visual impact mitigation.

My office will remain committed to making the State Department of Transportation be responsive to local concerns. My hope is that everyone will inform themselves about the need for a solution to our present problem and become involved with the planning process. This community responds in a responsible fashion when it needs to, our state agencies must do likewise.

Insurance Reform: Auto insurance legislation has already been introduced and sent to policy committees for public hearing in January. The Legislature is committed to providing a climate of equity so that auto insurance is affordable and the climate for auto insurance industry is competitive.

There is continuing debate to enact a New York-style "no-fault" auto insurance plan rather than the insurance industry proposal which appeared as Proposition 104 and was rejected by the voters.

Workers Comp: As always this will continue to be a hot topic. I think 1989 will produce some modifications.

Education: Our state government's most important product occupying nearly 55 percent of a very tight state budget. Passage of Proposition 98 now earmarks a minimum level of funding not to fall below the 1987 percentage. Already the governor and other opponents of Proposition 98 have begun a tug-of-war pitting other state programs against K-12 funding. Many local school programs such as the model educational technology at Monterey Unified School District could be affected by this tug-of-war. The budget battle will continue to center on education funding.

Offshore oil: Ground zero for offshore oil exploration and production are the northern reaches of Monterey Bay. My Monterey Bay Task Force will remain committed to working with Rep. Leon Panetta in the creation of the Monterey Bay Marine Sanctuary. Leon has done a tremendous job in getting the lease sale postponed. We now must go the extra mile with the Bush Administration to get the lease sale cancelled.

Coastal Commission: The governor will continue his "death by a thousand nicks" by crimping the Coastal Commission budget and office needs and the Legislature will continue to restore the funds and office needs. The governor has the last word with his line item veto.

Unfortunately, our local ability to monitor the management of local governments implementation of the adopted local coastal plans for Big Sur and the peninsula, including Sand City and Marina, will be affected by the governor's action.

Small Business Development: My Committee on Economic Development and New Technologies will continue to provide legislation to assist small business development, including model loan programs such as the coast and assistance programs like the Small Business Development Center at Cabrillo College. These will also be affected by the governor's budget to be made public Jan. 10.

1989 will be a tight year in Sacramento. Compounding the problem will be implementing confusing initiative language in areas of political reform, education, and insurance. It's a challenge I look forward to meeting as well as representing a very special district which is also my family home. My office stands ready to serve you in 1989.

Sierra Club

RECENTLY, THE Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club asked its peninsula membership for opinions and views on key environmental issues and concerns as an aid in formulating chapter policy and positions.

Member response was unusually strong with 703 questionnaires being returned out of a total of 2,550 sent out, a response rate of 27.5 percent. Since the chapter feels that the questionnaire responses say a great deal about citizen environmental preferences and concerns, it offers the following responses as a grassroots perspective on 1989.

A part of the questionnaire dealt with the proposed improvement of Highway 1, also referred to as the Hatton Canyon Freeway Project, and water supply alternatives. Members voted 366 to 104 in favor of a widening of Highway 1 along with an interchange at Carmel Valley Road as an alternative to the Caltrans proposal. They voted against the Caltrans proposal by 366-104 and against a down-scale, slower-speed redesign of the Caltrans proposal by 232-141.

When it came to the choice among water supply alternatives, respondents clearly favored, by a vote of 314 to 106, a combination of alternatives to a dam on the Carmel River including a smaller dam on a tributary of the Carmel River plus dredging of existing dams plus additional water conservation. A 29,000 acre-foot dam on the Carmel River was defeated by 314 to 106 and a smaller dam on the Carmel River was opposed by 226 to 87.

Another part of the questionnaire dealt with conservation priorities. Members were asked to vote their choice, from a list of 13, for the five top conservation priorities in order of importance. (See below for a listing of member choices.) The outcome of the voting for the five top priorities is an interesting mix of offshore concerns balanced with such close-to-home priorities as water, toxics and clean air.

Prevention of offshore oil drilling was voted top priority. Sanctuary status for Monterey Bay (note that Rep. Leon Panetta's successful attempt to obtain sanctuary status for the Monterey Bay was announced just as the questionnaire was mailed) was the preference for second priority followed by water and waste management. Disposal of toxic wastes took fourth priority followed by safe drinking water and clean air in fifth and sixth positions.

CONSERVATION PRIORITIES

1. Prevention of off-shore oil drilling
2. Sanctuary status for Monterey Bay (achieved)
3. Water and waste management
4. Disposal of toxic wastes
5. Safe drinking water
6. Clean air
7. Wild life habitat protection

8. Environmental education
9. Protection of Big Sur
10. Wetlands preservation
11. Coastal dune protection
12. Protection of Monarch butterfly habitat
13. Protection of native stands of Monterey Pine

The final part of the questionnaire dealt with political endorsements by the chapter. On this matter there was clear support for endorsement of candidates at all levels of government, from local to presidential. Endorsements of county/state and congressional candidates were supported by 3 to 1 margins while endorsements of city and presidential candidates were favored by somewhat more than 2 to 1 margins.

CHOMP

VIEWS PERTAINING to possible accomplishments to reach in 1989 are derived on where my base of performance is directed.

My status with The Carmel-By-The-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross is that of public relations director. In that capacity I inform all of the media public information of importance that occurs anywhere in the world within the areas pertaining to the American Red Cross and most certainly to the public living on the Monterey Peninsula. Chief objective for the coming year will be to inform on blood drives and the AIDS situation. To list all Red Cross teaching classes on CPR, AIDS and First Aid.

In the capacity as Blood Program Coordinator for the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, my most important obligation is to schedule individual blood drives at various institutions of learning, at industrial business organizations, at hotels, shopping centers, military installations, fraternal organizations and all law enforcement agencies.

The importance of blood drives is to keep a supply of blood available, constantly, to care for those in need of transfusion, to save lives. As revealed in the above listings the main objective is to be positive in total blood drives that are necessary to keep the blood services department at the hospital constantly aware

Failure to return water census could mean a minimum allocation

By NANCY HILLS

If YOU want more than the smallest water allotment of rationed water, pay attention to a one-page form in the mail this week from the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

The district is sending 35,000 census forms, at a cost of approximately $30,000, to all water connection billing addresses.

Throwing the form away or leaving it in that "things-to-do" pile could lead to an unpleasant shock.

Those who neglect or refuse to return the census will receive a 68-gallon-per-day allotment, no matter what type of business or home or the number of people living at the home.

The form asks for information about what type of business or residence is served by the meter and how many people depend on that water connection. Each form is coded to identify the particular meter it was sent to.

The district will use the information to determine if the household is over the lifeline ration, the second step in determining if a home is within compliance.

If a household reduces its consumption by 20 percent from its 1988 bill — the first step — it will be in compliance with the rationing plan, no matter how much is used per person. That household will not even go to the second step.

If it does not reduce by 20 percent, then California-American Water Co. will send the bill on to the water district. The district will compare the water consumed with the information received in the census.

Detached homes with more than one person can use up to an average of 82 gallons a person per day, while a home with one person can use 122 gallons per day.

Apartments, condominiums and townhouses with more than one person are allowed 46 gallons per person a day. The same type of residences with a single occupant are permitted 68 gallons per day.

That is the smallest total allotment in the rationing plan. (The two or more person allotment of 46 gallons per person allows a minimum of 92 gallons per day.)

The form should be returned by Friday, Jan. 13 to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District census depot in Seaside in the postage-paid envelope provided, or if not available, to 1955 Fremont Blvd., Seaside 93955.

The deadline for returning the form is the final deadline, water district program manager Ralph Holton said.

"Somehow we have got to draw the line. If there is a legitimate reason for not returning them, we can process it," Holton said.

The form must be filled out with a number 2 pencil, a provision the water district admits will lead to some difficulties.

The computer forms requests information about:

- The type of use the meter serves, whether it is residential, mixed residential/commercial, or commercial.

Residential is divided into single-family detached dwellings or townhouse/condominium/apartment.

- If residential, the number of people who live in the residence full time.

- There is a section for one meter shared between two or more separate residences, as are any of the second kitchens in Carmel. The section asks how many residential units are on the meter, the total number of full-time residents, and how many only have one person in residence.

to testing and storing blood for quick availability to anyone in need. Most importantly, keep the public aware of where and when blood drives are being conducted.

People of the community must build to a feeling of obligation to donate blood to help themselves and others.

The public should be made aware that over nine million individuals in the United States did donate blood in 1988 and that 26 persons received a blood transfusion every minute of each hour.

There is absolutely nothing to fear in contracting any virus by donating the "Gift of Life," blood.

My hope for 1989—more individuals will come forth and donate blood. Look for Bloodmobile locations, call the Red Cross at 624-6921 or Blood Services at CHOMP 625-4814 or come to the hospital and simply save a life and donate.

Carmel Valley Property Owners Association

1989 MAY become known as a year of major change for Carmel Valley residents.

Water, or the lack of it, becomes an issue of vital everyday importance as valley residents, and all Monterey Peninsula residents, cope with the drought and water conservation restrictions. The program, and the shortages, almost surely will lead to new public pressures for a dam.

The Carmel Valley Master Plan and its implementation will occupy the time, thoughts and energy of many of the valley's civic minded citizens as large and small subdivision proposals come up for consideration. Traffic on Carmel Valley Road may grow to a point that trigger mechanisms, under the Master Plan, may be tripped. If so, building of private homes in the valley could be affected, and, dependent upon actions by the board of supervisors, legal challenges of the trigger procedure could be troublesome.

Traveling and commuting on Carmel Valley Road may not be the same in 1989 if radar enforcement on the road is begun. The radar program, sponsored by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and designed to reduce property damage and injuries, as well as save lives, now awaits only the approval of the California Highway Patrol Commissioner in Sacramento. Funds provided by interested valley residents are in hand for purchase of two radar units for the CHP once approval is given.

1989 may, or may not, go down in history as the year in which the Hatton Canyon freeway was approved. If it is approved, after 30 years of discussion, the hoped-for relief to traffic congestion can't be just around the corner, but it holds future promise when the freeway is completed. While CVPOA supports the freeway concept, it hopes that improvements can be made for traffic handling at the Carmel Valley Road intersection and continues to work towards interchange refinements and county-Caltrans cooperation in side road traffic handling.

A continuing CVPOA program for constructing service centers in Carmel Valley will bear first fruit in 1989 when the first such center will be built on land just east of Carmel Valley Village.

Service centers are designed to provide accommodations for plumbers, electricians, painters and other service firms so that their equipment and materials can be stored in central locations rather than in residential backyards in the valley. Other service center locations are needed and another is now being proposed for mid valley. Service centers will benefit all valley residents, both in cleaning up neighborhood environments and in preventing higher maintenance and service costs which would result if contractors had to move their businesses outside the valley.

The Carmel Valley Property Owners

Association, now 1,100 members strong, stands ready as it has for the past 40 years to carry out programs of benefit to the valley's environment and to its residents. A new slate of officers and a new board of directors will take office on Feb. 8, pledged to the same high standards as in the past.

Starting in January, monthly meetings of the board, always open to members, will be held the second Wednesday of each month at a new location, the public meeting room in mid valley fire station. Meetings are at 7:30 p.m. Meetings were formerly held at Saint Dunstan's Episcopal church in mid valley.

BY MICHAEL ZAMBORY
General Manager

Carmel Sanitary District

THE PRINCIPAL business of the Carmel Sanitary District is to collect, treat, and dispose of wastewater. Toward this end, the district continues its preparation for the inevitable demand for additional treatment capacity.

Our facility presently flowing at 2.2 million gallons per day, average dry weather flow (ADWF), is licensed to process 3.0 MGD and has a physical capacity to handle 4.0 MGD (ADWF). Demands for this capacity are constantly being pressed as evidenced by such proposed developments as Carmel Valley Overview, 200 units; High Meadow II, 122 units; Carmel Greens, 115 units; Coast Ranch, 141 units; Quail Meadows, 65 units; Carmel River Inn, 48 units, etc.

Concurrent with developing our capacity needs, the district continues its 10-year pursuit of wastewater reclamation. This time, it's a joint effort with the Pebble Beach Community Services District and the Pebble Beach Co. Phase I engineering has been completed together with the administrative draft of the EIR.

Key issues yet to be resolved include the fiscal sponsor ordinance under consideration by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and approval by the county planning department of the 359 lots of subdivision proposed by the Pebble Beach Co. for its lands within the Del Monte Forest.

If all goes as planned, reclaimed water could be available for the seven golf courses in Pebble Beach by the summer of 1990. As much as 934 acre feet of reclaimed water per year is involved. This means, too, that an

Strasser Kauffman sworn in during bedside ceremony

UNABLE TO attend the swearing-in at the supervisors chambers in Salinas on Tuesday, 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman took her oath of office at her Carmel Valley home Monday afternoon.

Strasser Kauffman, recuperating from injuries sustained in a horseback riding accident Dec. 10, was elected to a second four-year term as supervisor last June.

"I'm grateful I've gotten to this point," said Strasser Kauffman, who suffered a broken back, concussion and fractured ribs in her mishap. "Right now I'm obeying (doctor's) orders, but I'm really looking forward to coming back."

She added that she may attend next Tuesday's supervisory meeting for a short time, but sitting for more than an hour is difficult due to her back injury.

"I've finally come to accept that the important thing is to accept my priorities very carefully," she said, adding that she is communicating with the other board members by memo on what she considers to be important agenda matters.

This week's 30-minute ceremony was presided over by Monterey Superior Court Judge Richard Silver, said Strasser Kauffman.

"That was the real highlight of the week for me," she said. "I'm grateful for my constituents for giving me four more years."

Also attending the ceremony were Ralph Kuchler, county counsel; aide Sandy Smith and her husband Stanley; Strasser Kauffman's husband Richard C. Kauffman; and son Eric. Her other son Sasha was in school and unable to attend the gathering.

After the swearing-in ceremony, Strasser Kauffman and her guests discussed matters of political relevance to the county.

"I enjoyed it," she said, referring to the talk. "It was my first political discussion since my convalescence. I enjoyed getting back into the fray for a short time. It really got my adrenaline going."

TRUSTEES INDORSE CARMEL PACIFIC GROVE ROAD

In face of the fact that on November 20th the local chamber of commerce passed unanimously a resolution opposing the proposed direct road from Pacific Grove to this city, through the lands of the Del Monte Properties Company, our city board of trustees, at Wednesday night's meeting, adopted Perry Newberry's motion to indorse the project. The vote was three to one. Trustee Kibbler, Maxwell and Newberry voted in the affirmative and Trustee Parkes in the negative.

SITE FOR SCHOOL IN CONTROVERSY

While trustees of Sunset school district hoped to speed up preparations for the high school which should open to 175-odd Carmel pupils on Sept. 1, 1939, a new division of sentiment among Carmel's strong-minded and many-minded populace this week raised a question which will require an answer before plans for the high school can go further.

This Janus-faced question is one of site: Should Paradise Park or the site across the state highway at the eastern terminus of Ocean avenue be chosen by the Sunset trustees for the high school?

HOSPITAL BEAUTIFICATION

Seven magnolias have just been planted at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula in the continuing landscaping program. The trees, each 10 to 12 feet tall, have been placed in the planters at the main entryway to the hospital. Their shape is in accordance with the architect's plan of four years ago.

PENTHOUSE APARTMENTS IN CARMEL PLAZA?

Penthouse apartments in Carmel Plaza? That unlikely prospect prompted the Carmel Planning Commission to appoint a special committee on Wednesday, Dec. 17, to study a proposed ordinance that would stop conversion of downtown apartments for retail store use.

The planners were ready to recommend the measure to the City Council when Realtor Lenore Foster questioned the scope of the proposed law.

Planning Director Robert Griggs replied that the Carmel Plaza shopping area could conceivably wind up with apartments on its upper floor because of language in the present draft of the ordinance.

Computer Literate or Techno-Idiot?

WHAT BETTER time than at the start of a new year to resolve to join the 20th century's fascination with computers?

If you're anything like me, I know you've put it off, made fun of it, ignored it (hoping it would go away), rationalized your ability to function without one, and generally buried your head in the sand. Come on! I remember behaving the same way about microwave ovens, but who among us can live without one now?

So bite the bullet, expect a little frustration but allow for a lot of fun, and you'll be amazed at how easy—and addictive—it can be.

There are many computer training, consulting and retail establishments right here throughout the peninsula, located in your yellow pages under "Computer" and related sub-headings, or in your Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce membership directory. Or, you may wish to enroll in a self-paced adult education course at a very nominal cost ($10 per course) through the Pacific Grove (and other peninsula) Adult Schools, where classes offered range from "Overview of Computers" to "Word-Processing" to "Business Applications."

Obtain more information about these convenient classes by calling Pacific Grove Adult School at 646-6580 weekdays from 9 to 4 and from 7 to 9. Also, contact the Monterey Peninsula Community College for their computer-related courses. Many computer training and retail establishments offer crash courses for various fees, or the staff at the computer store you choose can provide operational support or direct you toward proper training tailor-made for your needs. The point is, there are many training and educational opportunities out there.

I did not want to be a "techno-idiot" forever, so I relented and purchased a computer and printer. The staffs at the local retail computer stores I consulted knew I was relying on them to guide me, so they were very candid and helpful. (I'm sure they didn't want this techno-idiot calling them every day!)

Like so many endeavors, conquering computer operation requires practice, practice, practice. Peninsula public libraries have computers available for such practice, plus they provide a wide variety of self-help literature. As for one of my first computer adventures, to prove that I actually could operate the beast, I personally made 6-foot banners naming every business that participated in the recent Chamber Trade Fair.

It might be fun to make "computer literacy" a group activity by enrolling in computer courses with a few friends. Many things are made easier with the support of others who are in the same boat (or disk-drive, if you will), don't you think?

You may find it noteworthy that my husband (whom I consider to be a computer genius) conducted exhaustive research through endless stacks of magazines and catalogues, comparing prices and features of hardware, software and accessories. We were pleased to confirm that our local peninsula retailers are competitively priced in comparison with regional, statewide and nationwide dealers, plus they're so accessible—why go anywhere else?

On a different note, I'm going to treat myself to a tour of the local wineries, so look for an in-depth review of local wine and wineries in a not-too-distant future column!

(This bi-weekly column is a service of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce "Buy Peninsula First" campaign, a joint project of the Economic Development Committee and the Small Business Committee. Readers are invited to submit their thoughts and suggestions in writing to "Buy Peninsula First," c/o the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 1770, Monterey, CA 93940.)

International films shown in Monterey

Following its holiday break, the Monterey Peninsula International Film Series will screen My Life as a Dog and Double Indemnity.

Lasse Hallstrom directed the 1985 release, My Life as a Dog. The film, shown in Swedish with subtitles, tells of a 12-year-old boy who runs through a series of horrifyingly funny disasters. It will be shown Friday through Sunday, Jan. 6-8.

Billy Wilder directed the 1944 "film noir" classic, Double Indemnity. Edward G. Robinson, Fred MacMurray and Barbara Stanwyck co-star in tale of "blueprint for a perfect murder," which supplies a convoluted plot of crosses, double crosses and double-double crosses. Double Indemnity will be shown Wednesday, Jan. 11.

All films begin 8:15 p.m. in Morse Auditorium, located at 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $3.50 general, $3 for students and $2.75 senior citizens. For information, call 626-1730.

Landmark destroyed

THIS REAR view of the fire damage to the Tuck Box Gift Shop indicates the extent of the destruction which has made rebuilding the landmark shop impossible. The fire in the early morning hours of Christmas was one of two received by the Carmel Fire Department. Both calls have been ruled arson and possible coverups for break-ins. The first was a fire at Kris Kringle shop in the Doud Arcade at 3:38 a.m. The second alarm, which came in while the firefighters were cleaning up at Kris Kringle for the historic Tuck Box Gift Shop on Dolores Street. Ari Block of the Carmel Fire Department explained that the fire was well established by the time the alarm came through and the fire department arrived. Tim Meroney, Carmel building official, said that the damage was so extensive that the shop, built in 1929, will have to be razed. Owner Aileen Hillman had just received the unhappy news at press time did not know what the future held for rebuilding the landmark shop. The Tuck Box restaurant in front of the

A SOLUTION TO WINTER ENERGY BILLS IS RIGHT AT YOUR FINGER- TIP.

Winter's colder temperatures and longer nights increase the need for light and heat. Combined with higher rates, this may soon mean a larger energy bill. Starting now, with a little extra care, you can help keep costs under control.

First, if your health and comfort permit, turn down your room thermostat to 68° or lower. If you don't have an automatic setback thermostat, turn it down to 55° or off, before you go to bed and you'll save even more. Turning off the room thermostat when you leave the house can produce additional savings. And unless you have a dishwasher that needs a higher water temperature, turn the water heater down—but not below 120°.

PG&E can send you a form which you can use to conduct your own home energy audit. For more tips, contact your local PG&E office. They can show you more ways to help control energy costs through conservation and bill payment options.

At your service.

About this time last year I did a column on misspelling of my name and would like to update that column with new versions from '88.

For my first name, an 'ie' ending is common as a 'jory' ending. Needless to say, neither is correct. One recent new spelling comes to mind — "Marjy."

"Neswith" continues to be a popular conception of my last name. Others joining the ranks of creative spelling are: Nezquitz, Nesevitz, Nesvitz, (I do sit alot), Neyswitz, and Neswitt (no "s" and no "z").

No matter how you spell my name, I look forward to seeing you as I make the social rounds in '89 and hope it's a healthy one for each and every one of our wonderful Pine Cone readers.

Proposal for a day-use preserve moves forward despite protests

By DAVID LELAND

AFTER HEARING protests from about 35 Palo Colorado Canyon residents, plans moved forward this week for a day-use preserve on the old "Philo" property, located several miles south of Carmel.

The latest usage planned for the land could mark an end to a six-year struggle to keep the 1,157-acre property free from logging, with the opening scheduled for this summer, according to Gary Tate, Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District manager.

"This is the first time since the inception of the (Monterey Peninsula Regional) park district that we have had the opportunity to establish an open-space preserve that we will run," said Zad Levy, president of the park district board.

Levy, who is also counsel for the Big Sur Land Trust, pointed out that acquisition of Garland Ranch Regional Park in 1975, which is now run by the park district, runs a close comparison to its present plans.

Currently owned by the Big Sur Land Trust, which purchased the property in late 1987, the land is scheduled to change title sometime in February, according to Tate, who added that the price tag for the purchase is about $1.4 million.

Funding for the acquisition is coming from Proposition 70, a bond measure passed by voters last November which targeted $25 million for the purchase of open space viewshed along the Big Sur coast and additional money for establishing open space.

Tate said currently there is sufficient parking for nine cars, which will be expanded to accommodate 14 autos when plans are completed.

Tentatively entitled "Bixby Creek Preserve," eventual plans call for a full-time ranger station, restroom facilities, fire protection from Mid-County Fire Brigade and California Department of Forestry, and additional hiking trails.

BUT FOR many residents who enjoy the comparative isolation of Palo Colorado Canyon, the prospect of increased visitors comes as distressing news.

Council's 'lot' filled with parking issues

By NANCY HILLS

IF ALL the upcoming Carmel City Council agenda items on parking were parked cars, the lot would probably be full.

The four parking items include a two-tiered, partially underground garage proposed as a joint venture between the Pine Inn and the city; the go-ahead on the environmental impact report for the proposed Sunset Center garage and a proposed "temporary" parking lot plan for Handley property on Junipero and Third avenues. Also, parking committee chairman Alan Williams is scheduled to make a report on the committee's proposals and timelines.

The proposed Pine Inn/city garage between Lincoln and Monte Verde streets has stirred controversy before, generating petitions in opposition and debate in city council meetings.

Though close to the downtown and across the street from the Pine Inn, the proposed garage is zoned R-1, or residential. It is a situation that has generated much of the debate — whether or not any parking structures should be allowed in the R-1 district.

Proponents of the plan maintain the location is not truly residential despite the zoning and that it is a good opportunity to get more parking free to the city.

The Pine Inn will pay for the project and share the parking provided with the city.

The proposed garage incorporates the current Pine Inn parking lot on the corner of Monte Verde Street and Sixth Avenue and the city-owned lots on the corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue.

The lots were originally intended as the site for the proposed library annex.

The purchase of the Crocker Bank building, which will be used as a library branch, negated that proposal and left the city with three informal parking lots.

The lots connect on the west side with the Pine Inn parking lot, which is below the Earlier this week, they gathered en masse at a park district board meeting to voice their discontent.

"The battle has just begun," said Mike Caplin, after the board decided to move ahead with its plans. "Now we have to start getting organized."

Caplin said one of the locals' biggest fears is an increased influx of traffic with the formation of a day-use facility.

But Tate said that the park district had taken into account the conditions of the road and does not anticipate any problems with increased traffic.

"We acknowledge Palo Colorado Road is windy and narrow," he said. "We will not encourage over-use."

Big Sur Land Trust Executive Director Brian Steen added that he did not see problems for canyon residents.

"The people who live in the canyon are the ones that are protected and will derive the most benefit," he said, referring to the current trails existing on the property. "They use it anyhow."

Steen said the land trust paid $1.2 million for the property in 1987, which concluded negotiations that started in 1983, when state officials gave permission to the Philo Lumber Co. to log 72 acres of redwoods on the land.

At that time a number of residents approached the land trust asking if the property could be purchased to save it from logging.

After haggling with a Sacramento bank and getting the price down from $3.2 million, the land trust secured a loan from the David and Lucile Packard Foundation to buy the land a little over a year ago.

Caplin said that, while the residents appreciate the land trust's involvement, they want more say in the use of the land. He added that some people may want to attempt to purchase the property.

"I believe that the (park) district has been led to its current position on the 'Philo' proposal by a handful of individuals who either have an incomplete understanding of the circumstances, or who do not have the best interests of the community at heart," he said.

According to park district officials, no final approval on purchase of the land will take place until the park district board conducts a tour of inspection at 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 21 and hears final testimony at its Feb. 6 meeting.

grade of the city-owned lots.

The proposal is to extend the Pine Inn lot beneath the city-owned lot. The parking on the city lots would be extended through a structure out over the Pine Inn lot. The Pine Inn proposal would cover the structure with Carmel stone.

In the agreement, the Pine Inn would have the use of the lower portion of the parking lot and the city the upper portion. There would be no exchange of ownership.

Councilman James Wright has opposed the garage in the past and said he believes he will again, though he has not seen the most recent proposal yet.

"I'm opposed to the two-level parking garage for a number of reasons. There is no other two-level parking structures anywhere in the community and I don't think any should be in the residential zone. I also believe it is contrary to the general plan," Wright said.

The proposal is back on the agenda for this January because last December, the council requested that the staff inform the Pine Inn that the city was considering paving the three city-owned lots and wished to know if the hotel owner, Richard Gunner of Fresno, is still interested in a joint venture.

In other parking agenda items, the council will:

- Determine what parking, landscaping and ingress/egress plan to use for the newly acquired Handley property, now referred to as the Torres Street property.

The city's purchase of the large site between Junipero Avenue and Torres Street and Third and Fourth avenues was completed in the last week of December.

Tax-exempt certificates of participation were sold at about 7 percent. Twenty-two percent were sold to Carmel citizen, who were given a three-hour lead on other purchasers.

- Hear an appeal from Carmel Heritage to allow addition of three picture windows on the east wall of the Dansk building.

Eastwood's building on planning agenda

CLINT EASTWOOD may no longer be mayor but his building is once again coming before the Carmel Planning Commission.

Eastwood, through contractor Alan Williams, has applied to merge the site now occupied by the Hog's Breath Inn building and the site of his new office/retail complex now under construction on San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

The planning commission will meet at 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 11 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

The controversy between the city and Eastwood over the building's design prompted a threatened lawsuit which was settled out of court. The troubles Eastwood experienced getting his new building approved was one of the reasons he decided to run for mayor.

The requested lot line adjustment is to permit a connection between the two buildings so the Hog's Breath Inn can use a portion of the basement for refrigerated and non-refrigerated storage and restrooms.

The restaurant's current restrooms would be removed and that space used to expand the kitchen.

The connection between the buildings is a recent addition and as a design change, will have to be heard by the city council. The council must review any design changes according to the conditions of the lawsuit settlement.

Also, the two locations are in different commercial zones. The Hog's Breath is in the central-commercial zone and the adjoining new site in the service-commercial zone.

The Hog's Breath Inn was closed by the county health department after it discovered numerous health code violations. Many of the violations stemmed from crowded conditions in the kitchen and refrigeration units located on the vacant lot next door.

The restaurant is one of the most visited places in the city.

Also on the agenda is a request by the Carmel Plaza to add seating to Plaza Cafe facing Ocean Avenue. The request does not include an increase in seating and the addition includes plans to recess the front of the restaurant to allow for the new tables.

equivalent amount of potable water would be displaced and made available for uses other than the irrigation of golf courses.

Of special interest to the district in 1989 will be the opening of our new permanent 3,500-square-foot office and boardroom facility on Rio Road near Carmel Rancho Boulevard. For eight years, we have been actively pursuing a district-owned permanent office and boardroom facility having outlasted the Carmel Valley Moratorium and other deterrents. Our new address will be 3945 Rio Road.

We have been awaiting the effect of water conservation on the operation and maintenance of our wastewater treatment facility. Comparing our average dry weather flows May through October of 1988 with the similar period of 1987, we find the decrease to be only six-tenths of 1 percent or 15,000 gallons per day. There could be many reasons for this small difference unrelated to conservation per se. Still, it is rather surprising.

We continue supporting our public health and environmental concerns by monitoring our discharge of secondary treated wastewater to Carmel Bay through contracted water column testing, contracted mussel planting with subsequent flesh analysis and with our own forces testing the surf zone for coliform. The Carmel Sanitary District invites your inquiries and should you be interested, we would be happy to give your group a guided tour of our treatment facility.

(Editor's Note: Several people and organizations were asked, but chose not to — for a variety of reasons — to be a part of Perspectives on 1989, including Karin Strasser Kauffman, Bob Infelise, Mayor Jean Grace, Carmel Foundation, Sen. Henry Mello, Carmel Planning Commission, Nick Lombardo, Doug Schmitz, Councilman James Wright and Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary. In all fairness, some of those asked were on vacation — such as Mayor Jean Grace — and others had extenuating circumstances — Strasser Kauffman was involved in a serious accident. They will all, however, find their way on the pages of the Pine Cone sooner or later in 1989.)

SELF-HELP GROUPS OFFER A SENSE OF BELONGING

DURING THE HOLIDAYS AND ALL-YEAR ROUND

Feeling left out in the cold as the holidays approach? If you feel all alone while facing a difficult situation, self-help groups can offer you the comforting sense of community you especially need during this time.

Self-help groups provide a supportive and heartwarming atmosphere, where people who share common concerns join with others to discuss feelings and find better ways to cope.

The California Self-Help Center refers callers to more than 3,500 self-help groups that can make coping with the holidays easier and help people year-round.

By calling 1-800-222-LINK, toll-free, Californians can get information about self-help groups statewide. Groups exist for almost 200 concerns including addiction, bereavement, child abuse, divorce, physical conditions, chronic illness, and parenting, among others. Some self-help groups that can be especially helpful during the holidays are Overeaters Anonymous, Parents without Partners, Debtors Anonymous, Caregivers of Elderly Parents, Compassionate Friends (bereaved parents), Widows Support Group, and Emotional Health Anonymous.

The California Self-Help Center, which is funded by the California Department of Mental Health, also refers callers to a network of five regional self-help resource centers around the state. These regional centers can help start new groups in local communities and provide assistance to strengthen existing self-help groups.

BIG SUR SCHOOL NOMINATED FOR DISTINGUISHED SCHOOL AWARDS

Four elementary schools in Monterey County have been nominated for the 1988-89 California Distinguished Elementary School Awards, including Captain Cooper Elementary of Carmel Unified School District located in Big Sur.

Schools qualified for nomination by attaining high levels or showing great improvement on a variety of quality indicators, such as CAP test scores, amount of instructional time, improved student attendance; the number of writing and homework assignments, the number of students taking strong academic courses, and curriculum improvements such as bilingual education, drug and alcohol education, migrant education, visual and performing arts instruction, etc.

The Distinguished School Awards program is part of a more comprehensive California School Recognition Program (CSR) which State Superintendent of Public Instruction Bill Honig introduced in 1986. Last year, Fitch Middle School in Fort Ord was the only Monterey County school to receive one of 62 distinguished middle school awards statewide.

The State Department of Education will announce the winners of the California Elementary Distinguished School Awards in April 1989.

Seniors program needs participants

Carmel Police Department's "Seniors Helping Seniors" program has need for two types of seniors: those who would like to help and those who desire help.

According to Cathy Dampier, desk officer, there are seniors who are looking for some type of community involvement to donate their time and others who are lonely, "shut-ins," or are "at-risk" due to medical or physical reasons and desire contact with someone who cares about their welfare.

Under the program, senior volunteers call participants of the program by telephone from the Carmel Police Department. If for some reason the recipient doesn't answer the phone, the volunteer alerts the police dispatcher and a patrol unit is sent to check on the participant's welfare. To be effective, calls are made at about the same time every day, Dampier said, but the seniors aren't restricted to their homes.

In addition to the daily phone calls, home visitations, tea parties, and luncheons are also scheduled to "further enhance and improve the quality of our contacts" with those who are shut-ins or at-risk, Dampier said.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer or a recipient of the "Seniors Helping Seniors" program is encouraged to call the Carmel Police Department at 624-6403.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Forget about worry

Carmel Pine Cone Jan. 15, 1987

One of the most popular of human pastimes is worrying. Men seem to delight in remaining in a perpetual state of anxiety. They convince themselves that there is a certain majesty and glory in cherishing and cousing gloom.

"Worry is the interest paid by those who borrow trouble."

In the fifth century, B.C., the Greek slave Aesop of Samose in his fable of the country and city mouse wrote: "A crust of bread eaten in peace is better than a banquet partaken in anxiety."

We have often heard Robert Jones Burdette's observation: "There are two days in the week left sacredly free from fear and apprehension. One of these days is yesterday and the other I do not worry about is tomorrow. It isn't the experiences of today that drive men mad. It is the remorse of something that happened yesterday and the dread of what tomorrow may disclose."

Corum Jackson, one of the founders and charter members of the Carmel Rotary Club, had a congenital dislike for singing at meetings. He would not have tolerated this World War I song of 1915.

"What's the use of worrying, it never was worthwhile. So pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile!"

Oh Lord, your devoted servant Robert Louis Balfour Stevenson observed that "no duty we so much underrate is the duty of being happy."

Whale watch boats go out to meet mammals

The annual migration of California gray whales from Alaska to Mexico is in progress, and state park rangers will conduct whale watch programs at several points along the Pacific coast.

Whale watch programs will be offered on weekends through January at Garapata State Park, seven miles south of Carmel, and Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park, 37 miles south of Carmel. The whale watches are scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at both parks and at 10 a.m. Sunday at Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park. In addition, whale watch talks will be given during the Point Sur Lighthouse tours at 10 a.m. each Sunday. Point Sur is 19 miles south of Monterey.

For details, phone the Big Sur District at 667-2315.

State Park rangers say visitors' chances of spotting the 30-ton ocean mammals from those vantage points are very good. They should look for the spouting from a whale's blow hole, followed by the rise of tail flukes. The rangers urge whale watchers to bring binoculars and wear warm clothing.

Gray whales, the only species with a regular migration route close to the mainland, spend their summers in the Bering Sea, near Alaska, where they eat tons of krill—small crustaceans.

Spalding Pro-Am to draw celebrities, top players

BASEBALL SUPERSTARS Frank Viola and Jack Clark will make their debuts in the amateur field when the 17th annual Spalding Invitational Pro-Am kicks off the 1989 golf year Jan. 4-7 over three Monterey Peninsula courses.

Viola, the Cy Young Award winning pitcher from the Minnesota Twins, and Clark, the former Giants' slugger traded from the New York Yankees to the San Diego Padres, are among six top name athletes from other sports playing as amateurs in the $250,000 event.

Joining them will be retired basketball great Julius Erving, Boston Red Sox slugger Jim Rice, Toronto Blue Jays centerfielder Lloyd Moseby and free agent Bob Horner who played with the St. Louis Cardinals during the past season.

Erving and Moseby made their debuts in the Spalding last year. Rice and Horner have been frequent amateur competitors over the years. Defending champion is Lennie Clements who won a four-way playoff last year over Dan Pohl and former Spalding winners Ken Green and Tim Norris at the Carmel Valley Ranch.

Tournament headquarters this year will be the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club at Quail Lodge. The Carmel Valley Ranch will also be in the rotation as will be the Northern California Golf Association's Poppy Hills, also making its debut in the Spalding.

The Cobblestone, Gosby Inn and Green

Gables Inn extend the invitation to stay any Sunday through Thursday evening from Jan. 8 through 19 at a special room rate of $100 (including tax) and $50 will be donated as a gift to Special Olympics.

Each gift will support the Special Olympics, a program of physical fitness, sports training and athletic competition for children and adults with mental retardation. Monterey County Special Olympics works with more than 350 athletes and utilizes more than 1,000 volunteers.

Gourmet Gala benefit — an intergalactic feast

THE 1989 GOURMET Gala for the March of Dimes, Monterey Bay District, will jettison guests into the 21st Century with celebrities from the "Star Trek" film and television series, along with at least one astronaut, cooking their personal specialties in futuristic kitchen environments.

"Gourmet Galactica" is the theme of the fourth annual benefit, which will be held on Saturday, Jan. 14, 1989 in the San Carlos Ballroom of the Monterey Sheraton.

ARTS & LEISURE

"Star Trek" stars William Shatner, Wil Wheaton and George Takei, the film's writer-producer Harve Bennett, have all agreed to cook their favorite dishes for this year's gala. Dr. and Mrs. Buzz Aldrin—he a veteran of the Gemini 12 and Apollo 11 flights—are also on the celebrity line-up.

The event, which last year netted $68,000 for the March of Dimes, puts an eclectic collection of celebrity cooks into 12 environments created by local interior designers and architects. The cooks cook, the traditionally sell-out (at $150 per person) crowd observes, a panel of celebrity judges judge the dishes, and dinner and dancing follow. The 12 courses served at the dinner are the celebrity recipes, but prepared in larger quantities by the chefs of the Monterey Sheraton.

Artie Early and Laurie Hall are co-chairmen of the 1989 Gala, which this year will see several changes in format. The first concerns design of the cooking areas which, traditionally limited to local interior designers, has been expanded to include architects.

Probably more significantly, support for the 1989 Gala will not come from just one major sponsor but from a consortium of local businesses. Those firms already committed include Monterey Rolls-Royce, Saks Fifth Avenue, Country Home Care, Stahl Motor Co. Elan at The Lodge, Mills Distributing Co., First American Title with Les Segel Enterprises, Household Bank, the Nunes Co., Morse & Associates with Financial Center Mortgage.

According to chairman Early, her committee is making a particular effort to approach the agri-business community and more Salinas firms.

Explained Bill Cater, co-chairman of the Gourmet Gala's Development Committee, "Since the March of Dimes is county-wide in its impact, we want to extend involvement in this fundraiser to the entire county. Agri-business in particular has such a positive influence on the county that we think they would want to project that influence by being associated with a really positive event."

Gourmet Gala represents a year of planning by a dedicated group of volunteers. Committee chairmen include: Charlene Etienne and Victoria Gott, celebrities and hospitality; Judith Sharp and Bill Cater, development; Linda Lamb and Jerry Welling, kitchen design; T. Scott Moore, theme; Don Ferch and Steve Pagano, cooking; Mary Alice Cerreto and Kay Nunez, invitations; Susan Henderson, silent auction.

Additional information and invitations to the Gourmet Gala can be obtained by contacting the March of Dimes, 666 E. Franklin St., Monterey, 93940; or call 373-8482.

Spalding Pro-Am played locally through Saturday

Included in this year's pro field will be 1987 AT&T champ Johnny Miller, who won the 1983 Spalding, Masters champions Craig Stadler and George Archer and two-time PGA champ Dave Stockton.

Another former Crosby winner, Lon Hinkle, will also be in the field as well as tour-winners David and Danny Edwards and J.C. Sneed.

Former tour winner Rod Curl, Michael Jick and Andy Blossom qualified for the upcoming Spalding last Monday at Silverado. A total of 34 Northern California PGA Section members were in the qualifying test for three spots.

Tournament play will be over all three courses the first three days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The field will then be cut to the low 60 pros and ties and low 10 amateur teams and ties for Saturday's final round at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club.

The tournament has grown steadily in stature over the years with such names as Al Geiberger, Jay Haas, John Mahaffey, Bobby Clampett and two-time winner Peter Oosterhuis joining Miller, Green and Norris and Co. as previous winners.

Oosterhuis' entry is among the latest to be received at Spalding headquarters.

Advance sale gallery tickets (season badges are $30 until Christmas Eve when they will go to $40) are available at most pro shops or may be obtained by calling the Spalding office at (408) 484-2151. Individual daily tickets are priced at $15 each.

The Monterey Kiwanis Club, which has worked closely with the Spalding over the years, will once again be the beneficiary of tournament proceeds. In past years, the Kiwanis Club has used proceeds to benefit youth-oriented charity programs.

Peninsula architecture outlined in college class

Three courses covering the development of art and architecture on the Monterey Peninsula will be offered by the Monterey Peninsula Art Department during the Wintersession in January.

Since 1975, MPC art instructor Rick Janick and historian Kent Seavy have been documenting and studying the buildings and architects that have shaped the man-made environment of the Monterey Peninsula.

Special classes have been offered during the summer and winter sessions since 1980 focusing on Robert Stanton, Hugh Comstock, M.J. Murphy, Julia Morgan, Charles Sumner Greene, Will Shaw and Associates, and Pebble Beach. This Wintersession, Jan. 3-27, will feature the following courses:

ART 195—Visual Arts of the Monterey Peninsula will meet Jan. 4, 6, 11, 13 and 15 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The class will meet on campus in Room A-9 Jan. 4 and 6. The other class sessions will involve field trips to local art institutions. One unit of credit may be earned.

ART 196—Architecture of the Monterey Peninsula will meet Jan. 4, 6, 11, 13, and 15 in Room A-9 from 7 to 10 p.m. The architectural origins of the Spanish and Yankee periods will be covered in the one-unit course. Individual meetings will be devoted to the evolution of architecture in Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, and Pebble Beach.

BAY LIGHTS

By Ray Mungo

A new leaf

THIS IS the 50th and final weekly installment of Bay Lights and thank you all for begin terrific. It's been an absolute joy and addiction writing this journal every week thanks to you, dear readers, and your postcards, letters, calls and comments.

You've been fun and it was highly merry getting paid to eat in restaurants and stay in posh hotels and so forth. There's only so much of this a fellow can handle, however, before the waistline expands two inches and the ghastly truth of New Year's weigh-in adds 15 pounds to the groaning scales. Enough is enough or, in this case, too much.

But no writer could ask for better working conditions. Publisher Bill Brown and editor Mac McDonald pretty much gave us free rein to wander this page, and all over the landscape, seeking items to brighten your day. No bummers here.

Oh, we certainly ate in bad restaurants and endured dreadful food, but you didn't read about those places in Bay Lights. We had every freedom to criticize but it's a tough life trying to make it in the restaurant biz, and you'd almost have to eat in a bad restaurant several times to make sure the food was consistently awful because one slam review could put somebody out of business. Many good restaurants expired in 1988 anyway.

We're working on a new book, the ninth volume in a continuing shelf, tentatively called Famous Long Ago Again, and doing freelance writing as ever. Come Feb. 3 the Pine Cone enters its 75th year, the oldest continuously published newspaper on the Monterey Peninsula, and we'll certainly join in the Diamond Jubilee Year celebrations. Bay Lights will twinkle on...

LOOKING BACK over 1988 and 50 columns, it's difficult to impossible to come up with a Ten Best Restaurants of the Monterey Peninsula list. For one thing, there are more than 10 good ones worth recommending, for another we haven't eaten in every restaurant or even close to it. The current local phone book's yellow pages lists 660 restaurants around here, an insupportable glut. (Of course that number includes fast food outlets and doughnut shops, but there must be 350-400 "legitimate" restaurants.)

This list, then, is not the "10 best" places but simply 10 of our favorite experiences of the year:

- Eva's Gyaudz Factory opened at 329 Lighthouse in Monterey, a tiny storefront purveying frozen dim sum, bow, pot stickers and such, with loving attention to classic Chinese recipes. These people are on a mission to educate us about traditional gyaudz, and we are eager students...

- The Saigon Memoire restaurant brought authentic Vietnamese cooking to Marina, but the place folded despite excellent food. We hope owners Ed and Alina Metzner will try again in a more central location...

- The Ridge in Carmel Valley offered the superb French cooking of chef Daniel Barduzzi, who also opened the Fishmonger in CV Village last year. We haven't eaten at the new place but if Barduzzi is in the kitchen, you can be sure it's good...

- Ferdi's (Not Surdi's) at 740 Broadway in Seaside has a genuine Creole shrimp scampi dish sauteed in garlic butter with tons of fresh vegetables heaped over rice, a large miracle at $5.95...

- Silver Jones galloped into the Barnyard, high on Jack Silver's genial management and Michael Jones' skill in the kitchen, and promptly nabbed its share of the happening crowd. The chevre pizza cecilia is everyone's fave...

- David Walton's Beau Thai restaurant on Cannery Row continues to please with Thai food lighter and more delicate than any other. This place has a loyal following and just added a wine tasting bar called Fales of Cannery Row...

- Paraiso Hot Springs was "the best kept secret in Monterey County" until Bay Lights featured it, but it's returned to its happily sleepy normality. This natural oasis near Soledad was treasured by the Indians and Franciscan missionaries for its healing hot waters. Pools, cabins, snack and cocktail bar...

- Fifi's Cafe, Deli and Bakery in Pacific Grove produces excellent French cuisine and indescribable puff pastries at very moderate prices. Will chef Philippe Tardivet open a new restaurant in Carmel Valley?...

- The Gourmet Pantry at Lighthouse and 13th in PG is not what it appears to be. It looks like a takeout deli or convenience store but actually it's a Greek restaurant. Do not, as we did, make the mistake of ordering a hamburger in this joint or the lady will tell you, as she did us, "That's only on the menu for kids." Try the falafel sandwich on pita, thick, hot, in creamy sauce, $2.50...

- Chutney's Gourmet Cafe in The Crossroads just entered its sixth year serving up great burgers and a full menu of lunch and dinner entrees of color and spice, a different flavor...

WELL, THAT makes 10 but we have to add one more, the Fishwife at Asilomar Beach of course. Not that they need the publicity, it's always busy there. Even other restaurateurs can't figure out how owners Julio and Marie Ramirez manage to put out such quality and quantity in a $5 lunch or $10 dinner.

And we remind you that Sunday, Jan. 8 sees the "Monterey By Night" cabaret show returning to La Provence restaurant in the American Tin Cannery, complimentary with dinner; and that Saturday, Jan. 14 is the night of the annual Gourmet Gala at the Monterey Sheraton...

"TOO MUCH of anything is bad but too much whiskey is just right." Mark Twain said that, and you keep your Bay Lights burning 'til we meet again, friend...

The natural matter

WINTER CAN TELL you volumes about specific populations. Do they grump and merely suffer the cold time? Or do they address the natural matter with some grace and creative cheer?

The quarterly programming guide of KAZU Public Radio (90.3FM) shows today that its staffers stand tall within the latter category. Their game plan for Black History Month—February—honors jazz giants intelligently and by dedicated design.

Rightly so. The music represents a diary of Black America. It also demonstrates what's unkillable—dignity despite cultural dreck, beauty's tenacious aspect, spirit that's realer than any suppressive politics or economic sanctions (redlining, work force manipulation) or flat-out lynching tree.

Throughout the month, half a dozen broadcasters will devote specific and significant slots to individual artists—Billie Holiday, Nina Simone, Duke Ellington, Clifford Brown, Tadd Dameron, Lester Young, Ernestine Anderson, Etta James, Monk, Bird, Coltrane, on and on. Stride piano specialist Mike Schmitz plans birthday segments on James P. Johnson and Eubie Blake.

Lady Day, Trane and Clifford (among others) seem obvious choices. Tadd Dameron's inclusion emphasizes the real thoughtfulness here. Not only was Tadd a composer of special imagination (he treated sound the same way French Impressionists went at light); Dameron also led the way in arranging bebop for big bands. A true American maestro. Jim Bourne's show will bring forth this material.

KAZU deejay David Gitin long has been a local treasure: well-informed but never creepy with his expertise. Music Director Ace Lopez tells me that David and Program Director Benny Thompson coordinated this entire gift to the community. The quarterly contains a day-by-day breakdown and may be obtained free of charge at area shops; call the Pacific Grove station at 375-7275 to identify the pickup point nearest your home.

WHAT'S UNKILLABLE in us human beings shines through flugelhornist Tom Harrell's new album too. It's on the Contemporary label and carries a title that's simple and layered: Stories.

Right now Dustin Hoffman gathers righteous praise for his portrayal of a high-function autistic individual in the Rain Man movie. And Tom Harrell now chooses to go public (through this album's liner notes) with his condition. Schizophrenia that has been held in check by medication since his student days at Foothill College and Stanford two decades ago.

What might have blown away a less sturdy soul has been turned toward the music's real advantage by Tom, a regular in the Phil Woods Quintet since 1984. Phil claims that Tom's deep gift and forced concentration make him "The finest improviser out there today." Jacket commentator Ken Frankling adds: "That absolute need to shut off outside distractions...lets Harrell focus on his playing and improvising to a far greater degree than (others) can. He looks catatonic on the bandstand, yet his mind is actually riveted to the music his colleagues are playing." Phil again: "Tom is the most complete musician in my experience."

The album backs up those words with steady brilliance of composition and execution. All six tunes were written by Tom and he picked outstanding players: tenorman Bob Berg, this area's own Ray Drummond on bass, young Danish pianist Niels Lan Doky, guitarist John Scofield (on three cuts), Billy Hart at the drums. One hears why and how Harrell has been able to work most successfully with pros like Horace Silver, Gerry Mulligan, Sheila Jordan, Woody Herman, Lee Konitz and Pete Escovedo over the years—countless live dates and some five dozen recording sessions.

Tom chose just one ballad for the Contemporary date—Song Flower. This's absolutely haunting, bare and somber beauty. It's not at all hyperbolic to equate Tom Harrell with the shaman figure: he has seen worlds beyond common experience; he has come back with hard-won tales. To this observer, exposure given writing by Tom and pianist Kenny Drew (via other albums reviewed here recently) must be called the most dramatic development in jazz recording for all of 1988.

Tom's impact on a living master? Harrell and Dizzy Gillespie played a benefit together. Phil Woods quotes Diz as saying afterwards that Diz wanted a whole set of Tom's music so he could study it and then write a feature article about Tom Harrell.

Harrell's view: "I get bored easily and try not to repeat myself. Music...can structure your life and provide order in the universe. If my music makes people feel better and hopeful, then it gives me meaning and hope."

LARRY CARLTON'S back. As you may recall, the fine guitarist was shot in the neck last April when he surprised two intruders at his Los Angeles area home. He has begun playing benefits for a victims' aid group called Helping Innocent People (HIP).

HIP was created by Carlton and some close friends. Larry says: "We hear it on the news but we don't relate it to our lives. We don't realize that the violence could happen to us. I was lucky to have the money to pay my medical bills after the shooting, but as I lay there in the hospital I wondered about the people who don't have any resources. The money we raise from HIP will be ready and waiting for victims of violent crime who don't have the funds they need for treatment."

Such folks as Stanley Jordan, Michael Franks, Michael McDonald, Joni Mitchell and Christopher Cross have supported the effort as volunteer performers at fundraisers.

NOTEBOOK CHUNKS:

• Last time it was reported that superb San Francisco vocalist Kitty Margolis would work two February nights at the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club (2/7-8). The first evening was set as a duo gig with the extraordinary pianist Dick Hindman of Pacific Grove. Now Kitty has nailed down trio personnel for the second evening—Dick Hindman plus drummer Colin Bailey and Scott Steed on bass.

The full Bay Club calendar for January may be obtained over there right now. Good bet: New York trumpeter Rebecca Franks (1/11).

• Jimmy's American Place (Carmel Rancho Center) will continue offering live jazz on Tuesday nights throughout January. The flutes of Kenny Stahl attract top local players who help out in bright fashion; 8:30 kick.

• After its holiday closure, Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz has trumpeter Randy Brecker fronting his quartet on Monday night (1/9). It's $12 per; first set at 8.

• The initial album of local reedman Loren Pickford seems to be getting a pretty good push from Cexton Records. Attractive ads have begun appearing in the national jazz press. Song for a Blue Planet has George Cables, Billy Higgins, John Heard and excellent local guitarist George Roessler behind Loren. If you want the Cexton catalogue, write to: 2740 South Harbor—Santa Ana, CA—92704.

• Ernestine Anderson will work Kimball's in San Francisco (1/11-14). B.B. King at Great American Music Hall (1/5-7). The Fairmont's Venetian Room bills Keely Smith (1/10-22).

• Kronos Quartet at Yoshi's in Oakland (1/12-14). The string group now includes nightclubs in its concert schedule "for a more intimate listening experience." Joe Pass next (1/18-21).

• Robert Cray with John Hiatt and The Goners. San Francisco's Warfield Theater (1/23). Ticketing: 1-998-2277.

• Plan ahead perhaps. University of San Francisco's Laurel Heights Auditorium—Richie Cole (2/3), Sheila Jordan plus bassist Harvie Schwartz (3/3), knockout piano duo of Horace Tapscott and Denny Zeitlin (4/27). Info: (415) 476-2035.

• Billy Crystal again will host the Grammys at Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium (2/22). Coverage by CBS-TV.

Parking structure serves Monterey visitors

The 1,003-acre Cannery Row Parking Garage is now open. The four-level, $13 million parking structure features an open-air entry plaza, two levels of retail space, entrance on Foam Street and exits on Hoffman and Prescott avenues.

Approximately 2,400,000 pounds of reinforcing steel was used in the project. Sixteen thousand yards of concrete were poured on the site, with each truckload carrying approximately nine yards. The parking garage replaces the old 250-surface space parking lot that was previously located on Foam and Wave Streets, between Prescott and Hoffman.

The structure has been designed to be as open as possible for ventilation and security reasons. A state-of-the-art security system has been included in the operation of the facility. Two glass elevator cabs run on the outside of the structure.

Rates in the new parking facility are 75 cents per hour, with a maximum of $5 per day. Parking permits will be available to Monterey business people and employees for a monthly fee of $20.

CAROL • HOLADAY will teach Monterey Peninsula College this month. For "Introduction to Enameling" (ART 295) at registration information, call 646-4000.

Art of enamelling taught at MPC

Pacific Grove artist Carol Holaday will teach "Introduction to Enameling" (ART 295) at Monterey Peninsula College during the month of January. The class is offered as part of the college's Wintersession schedule and will run Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to noon from Jan. 3-25.

Students will learn the basic techniques for enameling on metal as well as advanced techniques such as cloisonne, champleve and screen printing with enamels. Anyone interested in registering for this class may contact MPC at 646-4000 for further information.

Pre-enrollment and registration forms are available in the lobby of the Student Services Building.

Holaday currently has on display at the Pacific Grove Library a selection of enameled objects illustrating a variety of techniques used by enamelists to create jewelry as well as other items.

Holaday is also exhibiting her silver cloisonne jewelry at Sea Fantasies Gallery, 400 Cannery row, through the month of December, as part of a three-artist show of work with a nautical theme.

A nationally recognized enamelist, Holaday earned a master's degree in art in 1978 from San Francisco State University and has been exhibiting her enamels since 1979.

Monterey architecture spotlighted

"Downtown Monterey: The Architecture of William Weeks," an exhibit in the lobby of Monterey's City Council Chambers celebrates early 20th century designs of the city's major downtown thoroughfare, Alvarado Street.

A prolific architect during the first third of this century, William Henry Weeks provided many Northern California towns and cities with business blocks, banks, hotels, libraries, and schools. His architectural repertoire ran the gamut from Queen Anne to Classical Revival to perhaps his and certainly California's favorite, Mission Revival style.

Among Weeks' many downtown designs are the Monterey Hotel, Ordway Pharmacy and the original First National Bank (now Bergquist Jewelers). Some of his architectural legacy succumbed to Urban Renewal during the 1960s and '70s. This exhibit recalls the lost structures of lower Alvarado such as J.K. Oliver's Mission Art and Curio Store, the original Bank of Monterey (later the Bank of Italy and the Bank of America) and the old Monterey Opera House which became the T.A. Work Theater and, eventually, the Wharf Theater.

For a new look at Monterey's historic downtown, come and view "Downtown Monterey: The Architecture of William Weeks."

The exhibit can be viewed 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays through February. For additional information, contact the Colton Hall Museum of the City of Monterey at 646-3851.

THIS SOFT-FOCUS image taken from a Cibachrome print is one of 25 photographs by Santa Cruz photographer Joan Blackmer included in an exhibit opening Saturday, Jan. 7 at the Cherry Foundation in Carmel. ## Photographers' works teamed for Cherry Foundation show

AN EXHIBITION of recent works by Santa Cruz photographers Joan Blackmer and Joanna Yates will open for a month-long showing at the Cherry Foundation on Saturday, Jan. 7 and continue through Jan. 28.

Blackmer, who has worked extensively with soft-focus techniques, will display a dozen prints detailing a dream-like evocation of household items and neighborhood scenes.

Yates, on the other hand, adheres to the principles of "pure" photography in an attempt to induce emotional resonance and impart to the viewer her spiritual understanding of the world. Together, the two artists create a lively gestalt of shapes and light, color and tone.

A reception will be held for the artists in the Cherry Foundation's gallery from 2 to 4:30 p.m., on Saturday, Jan. 7. The Cherry Foundation is located at Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel.

For more information, call 624-7491.

Jay Campbell's designs shown

PACIFIC-GROVE artist Jay Campbell will be honored Friday, Jan. 6, at an opening of his one-man show at the Bittersweet Gallery, 213 Forest Ave., Pacific Grove.

The opening will take place from 7 to 9 p.m. The show will run through Feb. 3.

Campbell is a graduate of Vesper George School of Art in Boston and Pratt Institute in Brooklyn. He has taught at the Butera School of Art in Boston and has lectured at art schools throughout the Boston area.

He is a past first-prize winner of the Artist

Guild's Juried Show, held at the Society of Illustrators in New York City.

Campbell has had a number of one-man shows on the Monterey Peninsula, most recently an exhibit of his large oil paintings in the Elmarie Dyke Room of the Pacific Grove Art Center in April 1988.

He has been painting in California since the late 1970s and strives to bring the vision of an East Coast artist to typical local scenes.

For more information call the Bittersweet Gallery, at 375-7976.

Props, books and neon comprise collection opening at Site 311

"VISIBLE TERRAIN," an installation of props, books and neon by Alexis Milton Moore, will be exhibited at Site 311 in Pacific Grove. A reception for the artist is planned 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 6 at Site 311, which is located at 311 Forest Ave. in Pacific Grove. The show continues through March 4.

Moore's work is comprised of three basic components: lines of text covering a wall of the gallery from ceiling to floor, two columns of books lighted by neon tubing that "frame" the text, and two photographs—each hung on an adjacent wall. The components together create a visual statement by juxtaposition of the artist's personal dialogue (the text), with a system of law books and photographs that evidence a questioning of individual power and group politics.

The "terrain" of public and private discourse that Moore offers us by raising questions about real lives and real systems of institutional authority is suggested by the yellow-ochred walls that hold the piece. The installation poses questions about how people's lives are controlled, and locates the viewer as being a part of any changes that can occur. The photographs bridge the private and public issue by pointing at culture and history as having an effect on individual life. As a whole, the installation offers a layering of impressions from land issues and individual rights to a body of words that become a visual landscape. A group of drawings—referenced by the artist as notational works, accompany the installation.

Moore is a Southern California artist whose work attempts not to reflect what we already know but to conjure up inconsistencies within history, science, nature and ideas and present them as variables. Past works have included performance and installation pieces, as well as two dimensional paintings and drawings.

For additional information, call 373-7552.
